

EDIT Collaboration Newsletter, May 2022

Study Update

- To date, representatives from 41 trials have agreed to join the EDIT Collaboration, representing 17 trials conducted in adolescents (n=1802) and 24 trials conducted in adults (n=3565). We are excited to work with you all over the next few years!
- If you know of any potentially eligible trials that have not yet heard from our team, please contact us at edit.study@sydney.edu.au
- We are currently finalising our individual participant data meta-analysis (IPD) protocol and have circulated this to trialists for review. Please return any comments by 31 May 2022.
- Information on sharing individual participant data will be provided in June 2022.

EDIT Collaboration webinar - Identifying eating disorders in people with obesity

Identifying the broad spectrum of eating disorders in people with obesity, and particularly during weight management, can be challenging. At this webinar, we will present current literature on the validation of screening tools used to identify eating disorders in people with obesity and discuss challenges with identifying those at risk in clinical practice and research settings.

AEST: Wednesday 22 June 2022, 8.00-9.00am

EDT: Tuesday 21 June 2022, 6.00-7.00pm

GMT: Tuesday 21 June 2022, 10.00-11.00pm

This webinar will be recorded. Please register below to receive a link to the recording.
